The National Medicinal Plant Board of AYUSH Ministry along with the Medicinal & Aromatic Plants Stakeholders jointly organized a one day review meeting to examine the draft of National Policy of Medicinal and Aromatic Plants in New Delhi today. Addressing the inaugural session of the review meeting, the Minister of State (Independent Charge) for AYUSH, Shri Sripad Yesso Naik said that the Medicinal Plant Sector is an ancient as well as a sunrise Sector and it provides diverse opportunities to the country. He said that India could play a leading role in the global market of herbal product and herbal drugs. On this occasion, the Minister also said that quality of medicinal plants based raw material is also one of the most important aspects. This being largely a perishable commodity, quality deterioration starts almost immediately after harvest especially in case of herbs and shrubs, he added. Shri Naik informed that NMPB has already started a major initiative by involving Joint Forest Management Committee / Self Help Groups and other similar agencies for proper drying, storage and primary processing of fresh produce at their doorsteps so as to ensure quality assurance. This scheme would give opportunity to farmers, collectors, traders and other stakeholders to get their raw material certified, Minister further said. The AYUSH Minister further explained that More than 80% Medicinal plants are sourced from the forest and this area have the potential of generating lot of employment opportunities. He said that the fringe areas of rich biodiversity sites are inhabited by the poorest of the poor, whose incomes can be augmented by a comprehensive strategy aimed at capacity building, provision of value addition facilities and structuring an interface between the community and industry. Shri Vaidya Rajesh Kotecha, Secretary Ministry of AYUSH; former Secretary of AYUSH Shri Ajit M Sharan; Ms. Shomita Biswas CEO, National Medicinal Plants Board were also present on this occasion.

Your Social Media Page is not the same as your.com Identity

According to a survey released by RedShift Research and GoDaddy1, 59% of businesses that own a website said their business grew once they had built their Website. Micro, small and medium businesses can use a website, social media, or a combination of both to connect with their target audience. If your business today neither has a dedicated website nor a social media page, it is difficult to stand out amidst the increasingly intense competitive environment. In order to build an online presence for your business, the first step is to register your company's domain name. It's beneficial to choose a top level domain (TLD) extension (e.g., .com, .net, .tv) that customers know and trust. Once you have a domain name, you can either redirect visitors to a social media page or build a brand new website with a customized design and user interface. (4-5)

Radha Mohan Singh sends a proposal to United Nations for declaring the year 2018 as International Year of Millets

Shri Radha Mohan Singh, the Union Minister for Agriculture & Farmers Welfare has sent a proposal to United Nations for declaring the year 2018 as 'International Year of Millets'. The proposal, if agreed, will raise awareness about millets among consumers, policy makers, industry and R&D sector. Promotion of production and consumption of millets through conscious efforts at global level is likely to contribute substantially in the fight against targeted hunger and mitigate the effect of climate change in long run. Popularizing millets would benefit future generations of farmers as well as consumers. Millet is a common term to categorize small-seeded grasses that are often termed nutri-cereals or dryland-cereals, and includes sorghum, pearl millet, ragi, small millet, foxtail millet, proso millet, barnyard millet, kodo millet and other millets. An important staple cereal crop for millions of small holder dryland farmers across sub-saharan Africa and Asia, millets offer nutrition, resilience, income and livelihood for farmers even in difficult times. They have multiple untapped uses such as food, feed, fodder, biofuels and brewing. Therefore, millets are Smart Food as they are Good for You, Good for the Farmer and Good for the Planet. Nutritionally superior to wheat & rice owing to their higher levels of protein with more balanced amino acid profile, crude fiber & minerals such as Iron, Zinc, and Phosphorous, millets can provide nutritional security and act as a shield against nutritional deficiency, especially among children and women. The anaemia (iron deficiency), B-complex vitamin deficiency, pellagra (niacin deficiency) can be effectively tackled with intake of less expensive but nutritionally rich food grains like millets. Millets can also help tackle health challenges such as obesity, diabetes and lifestyle problems as they are gluten free, have a low glycemic index and are high in dietary fibre and antioxidants. Adapted to low or no purchased inputs and to harsh environment of the semi-arid tropics, they are the backbone for dry land agriculture. Photo-insensitive & resilient to climate change, millets are hardy, resilient crops that have a low carbon and water footprint, can withstand high temperatures and grow on poor soils with little or no external inputs. In times of climate change they are often the last crop standing and, thus, are a good risk management strategy for resource-poor marginal farmers.

Smt. Anupriya Patel inaugurates the National Biomaterial Centre

Smt. Anupriya Patel, Minister of State (HFW) today inaugurated the National Biomaterial Centre (National Tissue Bank) at the National Organ and Tissue Transplant Organization (NOTTO). The main thrust & objective of this centre is to fill up the gap between 'demand' and 'supply' as well as 'quality assurance' in the availability of various tissues. Speaking at the function, Smt Anupriya Patel stated that it is important to understand that in India it is mainly the living donors who are donating organs and only about 23% of the organ transplant is being done with organs obtained from the cadavers. "There is a need to promote cadaver or deceased organ donation rather than relying on living donors in order to avoid the risk of commercial trading of organs and also to avoid the inherent.

Fura, A Gemstone Mining and Marketing Company Launches in India

Fura Gems Inc., a gemstone mining and marketing company plans to pursue various gemstone mining projects in India and will market its global coloured gemstone portfolio in India. Headquartered in Toronto, Canada and Administrative headquartered in Almas Tower, Dubai, Fura Gems Inc. is engaged in the mining, exploration and marketing of gemstones. The company starts operating in India in Q4 2017.

pansion, Dev Shetty, President & CEO of Fura Gems Inc. said, "We are delighted to expand Fura's wings into the Indian market. We aim to run more efficient, smarter and safer gemstone mining and marketing operations. Colour gemstones and diamonds have always been part of the Indian culture. This gave birth to the unique jewellery pieces studded with chunky coloured gemstones and diamonds. Today, India is 3rd largest jewellery consuming country in the world and a great hub for gemstones.

Fura recently announced the acquisition of the iconic emerald mine in Colombia, Coscuez. The company has also entered into a purchase agreement to enter the exploration and mining of rubies in Mozambique through the proposed acquisition of an 80% effective interest in four ruby licences and the submission of an application for an additional ruby licences. Commenting on the ex-

At present, Indian gems and jewellery market is highly fragmented, and is rapidly transforming into an organised sector due to the growing acceptance of branded jewellery market. We are focusing to create awareness and education about Fura's portfolio and mining operations including the ones will be in India. (19-10)
